VOLUME 12 NO. 5

"The dog was created especially for children. He is the God of frolic." - Henry Ward Beecher

MAY 2009

A special connection

Author Tim Link discovered he could communicate telepathically with animals about five years ago while at a workshop on the subject and since then has turned his talent and passion for helping animals into a business, Wagging Tales Inc. Now he shares some of his experiences as an "animal communicator" in a book, "Wagging Tales: Every Animal Has a Tale — Conversations with Our Animal Friends," due out this month by Emerald Book Company. Link, who also uses his skills as a Reiki energy healer to help animals, says he is able to establish a telepathic connection with an animal by being near it or by seeing a picture. He then relays a question posed by the animal's human companion and sees the animal's response through images, smells, tastes, words or feelings. Though some animals are more expressive than others, Link says an animal has never rejected his attempts to communicate. In his book, the author shares some of his experiences helping people communicate with their pets, whether it's to find out why a group of former shelter cats are struggling in a new home or diagnosing the reasons behind a dog's shyness around people. Along the way, he provides a number of tips for animal whispering at home — showing pet owners how to read the signs to determine a pet's wants or needs. "Wagging Tales," a 216-page hardcover book, retails for $16.95 and is available at most local and online bookstores.
